BENÉT LABORATORIES

Stephen Vincent Benét - circa 1903

Benét Laboratories, established in 1962, is co-located at the Army's large caliber cannon manufacturing center at Watervliet Arsenal in upstate New York. As a proud member of the Federal Laboratory Consortium, Benét Laboratories is organizationally attached to the Weapon Software and Engineering Center of the US Army Armaments Research, Development, and Engineering Center (ARDEC) at Picatinny Arsenal, New Jersey. Benét Laboratories is responsible for the research, design, development, producibility, and field support for the Army's large caliber cannons. Previously known as the Research and Engineering Division of Watervliet Arsenal, Benét Laboratories' cannons have been produced at Watervliet Arsenal since 1887.
